WM. S. HART IN PLAY OF KENTUCKY FEUDISTS

In "The Apostle of Vengeance," Triangle feature which will be seen at the Coliseum Theatre tomorrow night William S. Hart is seen in a story that is different from anything in which he has heretofore appeared.

"The Apostle of Vengeance," a drama from the pen of Monte Katterjohn, is a tale of Kentucky mountain feudists and has been handled with the realism characteristic of Ince productions. Its many tense scenes are tramed in settings of unusual picturesqueness, thus combining two of the most important elements in photoplay phoduction. Hart is cast as David Hudson, a minister who is the eldest son of a sturdy Kentucky mountaineer. He is brought face to face with the problem of choosing between avenging the death of his father, killed in a feud battle, and abiding by the scriptural teaching that "To me belongeth vengeance and recompense. His decision forms the big scene of the story and how he succeeds ulti-mately in restoring order among the warring factions is forcefully depicted throughout the remainder of the

In Hart's support will be seen such well-known Ince-Triangle players as Nono Thomas, Joseph J Downing, Fanny Midgley, Jack Gilbert, and Mvaerl Safford. The pro- out that she duction was directed by Hart and to be married the next day. photographed by Joe August.
